G. H. S. SENIORS WILL GIVE PLAY ON 2 EVENINGS

"Grumpy," a four-act comedy, will be presented Thursday and Friday evenings in the high school auditorium as the annual Gettysburg high school senior play. The curtain will rise at 8 o'clock each evening.

The plot centers about the fate of a large diamond which is being transported from South Africa to a firm in London by the hero, "Ernest Heron." "Heron" stays overnight at the home of his uncle, "Grumpy Bullivant," where he is attacked and robbed under mysterious circumstances. The action is made more amusing and complicated by the unexpected romance of "Grumpy's" granddaughter, "Miss Virginia Bullivant" and a "Mr. Jarvis," a house guest. English servants, with the usual accent, lend a touch of realism.

The cast for Thursday follows:

"Andrew Bullivant" (Grumpy), William Waltemyer; "Miss Virginia Bullivant," Betty Frazee; "Ernest Heron," Robert Deardorff; "Ruddock, the valet," William Rice; "Mr. Jarvis," Arthur Roth; "Dr. Maclaren," John Saby; "Mrs. Maclaren," Viola Hess; "Keble," also a valet, Fred Wentz; "Susan," Esther Davis; "Merridew," a butler, Curvin Mickley; "Isaac Wolfe," a curio dealer, Robert Troxell, and "Dawson," Russell Harness.

The cast for Friday's performance is the same in the case of several of the characters. However, the following roles will be assumed by different persons on Friday evening: "Miss Virginia Bullivant," Lyla Mary Smith; "Ruddock," Ken Lynch; "Mrs. Maclaren," Doris Ann Day; "Susan," Jean McCleaf; "Merridew," Richard Fidler; "Isaac Wolfe," Atlee Rebert, and "Dawson," Charles Bollinger.

The play is being directed by Miss Ruth McIlhenny and Miss Ruth Scott, both of the high school English department.

Music between the acts will be furnished by the high school orchestra under the direction of Edwin Longanecker, also a member of the high school faculty.

CYCLONE KILLS 18 IN 8 STATES

(By The Associated Press)

With the bodies of 18 known dead recovered, authorities in seven Mississippi valley states directed searches today for possible additional victims of a cyclone of tornadic proportions.

The great storm hit portions of Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee, Arkansas, Missouri, Illinois, and Iowa Tuesday, leaving an estimated 1,000 persons homeless.

From time to time, as the cyclone swept northward up the Mississippi, it developed "twisters" which mowed clean paths for miles along the country below.

The most damaging twister struck directly on Belleville, Illinois, killing at least eight persons, injuring scores, and wreaking $1,000,000 property damage. Several persons were reported missing.

Six persons were killed over a long stretch of territory in Missouri. Three were known to have been killed in Alabama and one in Georgia.

The force of the storm was dissipated in Iowa as the cyclonic winds swung northwest after striking Belleville.

High winds still prevailed today over thousands of square miles of the middle west. They were accompanied in some sections by the torrential rains which preceded the twisters.

Much of the area struck by the tornadoes was open farming country, a fact which accounted for a low human casualty list in comparison with the square miles wrecked.

Hundreds of herds of livestock were reported lost, not only from the winds but from accompanying local river floods.

In Kennett, Missouri, Paul Jones, Kennett newspaper publisher, said "at least 300 or 400 homes in Dunklin county alone," had been swept away. At some places "there wasn't a thing left," he said.

State motor police expected to take fingerprints of the man today and seek identification through that means. No arrangements have yet been made for interment.

The man was discovered first by children on their way to Kilpatrick's school in Mt. Pleasant township Tuesday morning. Parents notified the office of Sheriff B. W. Spence. After an investigation the sheriff had the unconscious form removed to the Warner hospital in the Adams county ambulance. Without regaining consciousness, the man died about 1:30 o'clock. Only a small amount of change was found in his pockets and nothing to indicate the name of the owner.

Police investigation disclosed that the man had spent Monday night with other wanderers in abandoned kilns and other buildings at the brick yards at the western edge of town. Although a number of transients were questioned none knew the name of the deceased.

COMMISSIONERS ADOPT BUDGET; TAX UNCHANGED

By unanimous vote of the members of the board of Adams county commissioners late Tuesday afternoon at their weekly session, the county poor and bond tax rates were fixed for this year at a total of 8½ mills, the same millage as was levied in 1937.

At the same time the commissioners adopted finally budgets for the county and for the Institution district, including appropriations for all purposes of $288,195.23, including a sum of $46,675.73 for "unforeseen contingencies."

Resolutions adopted by the commissioners set the tax rate for general county purposes at five mills; that for bond tax at one-half mill, and a poor tax of three mills to raise funds for the operation of the county Institution district which came into existence at the first of the year with the dissolution of the county poor board. Previously county poor district expenses had been paid out of a $35,000 annual appropriation from the commissioners to the poor directors.

Claim Expenses Are Uncertain

Reduction of the tax rates could not be made, commissioners explained, because of the uncertainty of the expenses the county may be called upon to bear as a result of recent legislation affecting the care of the poor of the county, the election laws and other matters. Balances in the three county funds at January 1 of this year were about $21,000 above those of 1937.

The budgets for the county and for the Institution district had been prepared by Winfield G. Horner, clerk to the commissioners, and tentatively adopted on February 8. Final approval Tuesday followed a 30-day period during which the new budgets were open for public inspection at the court house.

Total anticipated revenues on the general county account for this year are placed at $244,265.23 and are made up of these items: Balance available for appropriation at the beginning of the year, $99,644.89; miscellaneous revenue sources, $40,100; delinquent taxes, $30,000, and taxes from the current levy, $74,520.34.

Other Appropriations

Appropriations for general administrative purposes for this year amount to $99,820.23 and include the sum for contingencies. Appropriations under the head of "administration" include the following: County commissioners, $7,432.50; county solicitor, $840; court house, $6,860; elections, $10,550; tax assessments, $7,300; weights and measures, $1,900; treasurer, $5,205; tax collectors, $5,800; auditors, $2,900; recorder of deeds, $1,357.08; miscellaneous, $1,500, and capital outlay of $1,500.

The "judicial" department of the county government has been given appropriations of $30,320 and includes these separate appropriations: Sheriff, $6,875; coroner, $900; prothonotary, $3,135; clerk of the courts, $2,910; district attorney, $2,850; law library, $500; courts, $8,300; justices of the peace and aldermen, $2,000, and constables, $1,750.

The commissioners earmarked $19,850 to be spent on "corrections." The sum is distributed as follows: Probation and parole, $1,350; maintenance in correctional and penal institutions, $11,000, and county jail, $7,500.

Appropriations for charities total $4,500 and the sum of $48,000 has been marked for capital outlay for highway purposes, with damage claims and bridge construction listed as the chief items under that head. Miscellaneous appropriations total $20,025 and other fixed sums for debt service bring all appropriations to the total of $244,265.23.

Revenues anticipated for the cof-

"Heron" stays overnight at the home of his uncle, "Grumpy Bullivant," where he is attacked and robbed under mysterious circumstances. The action is made more amusing and complicated by the unexpected romance of "Grumpy's" granddaughter, "Miss Virginia Bullivant" and a "Mr. Jarvis," a house guest. CYCLONE KILLS 18 IN 8 STATES

(By The Associated Press)

With the bodies of 18 known dead recovered, authorities in seven Mississippi valley states directed searches today for possible additional victims of a cyclone of tornadic proportions.

The great storm hit portions of Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee, Arkansas, Missouri, Illinois, and Iowa Tuesday, leaving an estimated 1,000 persons homeless.

From time to time, as the cyclone swept northward up the Mississippi, it developed "twisters" which mowed clean paths for miles along the country below.

The most damaging twister struck directly on Belleville, Illinois, killing at least eight persons, injuring scores, and wreaking $1,000,000 property damage. Several persons were reported missing.

Six persons were killed over a long stretch of territory in Missouri. Three were known to have been killed in Alabama and one in Georgia.

The force of the storm was dissipated in Iowa as the cyclonic winds swung northwest after striking Belleville.

High winds still prevailed today over thousands of square miles of the middle west. They were accompanied in some sections by the torrential rains which preceded the twisters.

Much of the area struck by the tornadoes was open farming country, a fact which accounted for a low human casualty list in comparison with the square miles wrecked.

Hundreds of herds of livestock were reported lost, not only from the winds but from accompanying local river floods.

In Kennett, Missouri, Paul Jones, Kennett newspaper publisher, said "at least 300 or 400 homes in Dunklin county alone," had been swept away. At some places "there wasn't a thing left," he said.

Judge J. Russell Carr ended the trial suddenly late Tuesday by ruling that the Commonwealth's testimony was "not sufficient."

COMMISSIONERS ADOPT BUDGET; TAX UNCHANGED

By unanimous vote of the members of the board of Adams county commissioners late Tuesday afternoon at their weekly session, the county poor and bond tax rates were fixed for this year at a total of 8½ mills, the same millage as was levied in 1937.

At the same time the commissioners adopted finally budgets for the county and for the Institution district, including appropriations for all purposes of $288,195.23, including a sum of $46,675.73 for "unforeseen contingencies."

Resolutions adopted by the commissioners set the tax rate for general county purposes at five mills; that for bond tax at one-half mill, and a poor tax of three mills to raise funds for the operation of the county Institution district which came into existence at the first of the year with the dissolution of the county poor board. Previously county poor district expenses had been paid out of a $35,000 annual appropriation from the commissioners to the poor directors.

Claim Expenses Are Uncertain

Reduction of the tax rates could not be made, commissioners explained, because of the uncertainty of the expenses the county may be called upon to bear as a result of recent legislation affecting the care of the poor of the county, the election laws and other matters. Balances in the three county funds at January 1 of this year were about $21,000 above those of 1937.

The budgets for the county and for the Institution district had been prepared by Winfield G. Horner, clerk to the commissioners, and tentatively adopted on February 8. Final approval Tuesday followed a 30-day period during which the new budgets were open for public inspection at the court house.

Total anticipated revenues on the general county account for this year are placed at $244,265.23 and are made up of these items: Balance available for appropriation at the beginning of the year, $99,644.89; miscellaneous revenue sources, $40,100; delinquent taxes, $30,000, and taxes from the current levy, $74,520.34.

Other Appropriations

Appropriations for general administrative purposes for this year amount to $99,820.23 and include the sum for contingencies. Appropriations under the head of "administration" include the following: County commissioners, $7,432.50; county solicitor, $840; court house, $6,860; elections, $10,550; tax assessments, $7,300; weights and measures, $1,900; treasurer, $5,205; tax collectors, $5,800; auditors, $2,900; recorder of deeds, $1,357.08; miscellaneous, $1,500, and capital outlay of $1,500.

The "judicial" department of the county government has been given appropriations of $30,320 and includes these separate appropriations: Sheriff, $6,875; coroner, $900; prothonotary, $3,135; clerk of the courts, $2,910; district attorney, $2,850; law library, $500; courts, $8,300; justices of the peace and aldermen, $2,000, and constables, $1,750.

The commissioners earmarked $19,850 to be spent on "corrections." The sum is distributed as follows: Probation and parole, $1,350; maintenance in correctional and penal institutions, $11,000, and county jail, $7,500.

Appropriations for charities total $4,500 and the sum of $48,000 has been marked for capital outlay for highway purposes, with damage claims and bridge construction listed as the chief items under that head. Miscellaneous appropriations total $20,025 and other fixed sums for debt service bring all appropriations to the total of $244,265.23.

Revenues anticipated for the cof-

$180,000 FIRE ROUSES 60 IN CATHOLIC DORM

Herman, Pa., March 16 (AP).—Sixty students, clad in night clothing and wrapped in blankets, fled in the chill early hours today as a spectacular fire swept the main building of St. Fidelis seminary.

Sixty-six younger students in a fire-proof wing fled from that structure in orderly procession and stood through the cold hours till dawn watching firemen from nearby towns save the nearby monastery and other buildings.

The Rev. Bertrand Brookman, 39-year-old director of the school conducted by priests of the Order of Capuchin Franciscan fathers in this village 35 miles from Pittsburgh, estimated damage at $180,000. He said that he had "no idea" what started the blaze but that it originated in a work shop.

The destroyed four-story brick building contained classrooms, laboratories, bowling alleys, the dormitories of the 60 senior students studying for the priesthood and a 7,000-volume library. The boys lost all personal belongings.

Father Brookman, who narrowly escaped with his life, praised Father Victor Green for leading the boys to safety. He ordered activities at the school suspended and the boys sent to their homes.

Two seniors, awakened by smoke, aroused Father Green, and he ordered them to round up all in the burning building and to ring an alarm bell. Then the priest, with several others, led the youths to a fire escape.

Outside, they discovered Father Brookman had not been awakened and screamed his name. This aroused the director.

Detailing his escape, Father Brookman said:

"The smoke hit me and I stumbled blindly for a moment or two. I lost my sense of direction. I finally felt the bannister and practically slid down.

"I groped around at the foot of the stairway and felt a pane of glass. I gave a push and fell through into open air."

Walter Heasley, 23-year-old janitor overcome by smoke, suffered minor burns and was taken to a Butler hospital.

2 on Pardon Board Oppose Hawk Appeal

Ralph E. Hawk, of Franklin county, lost his appeal from a death sentence before the pardon board today.

Harrisburg, March 16 (AP)—Two members of Pennsylvania's pardon board expressed the opinion today that Ralph E Hawk of Franklin county should pay with his life for the "torch" slayings of the mother and sister of the girl he was to marry

"He knew the difference between right and wrong" said Thomas A Logue, as the board considered an appeal by counsel for Hawk

"There is no question that this was an atrocious crime," said Attorney General Charles J Margiotti "It was cold-blooded. It is such a crime where the perpetrator should pay the supreme penalty unless the defendant is mentally unstable, as decided by a court. Where is there anything in this case to show a degree of emotional instability to justify this crime?"

France and Russia Agree to Defend Czechs if Necessary

brought to Foreign Minister Joseph Paul-Boncour by Jacob Suvitz, Soviet ambassador to France, who delivered assurances similar to those delivered by the Soviet ambassador to Praha—that Russia would fight for the defense of her Czech ally.

Paul-Boncour replied to the assurances with a promise that France too would fight in the same cause.

Adolf Hitler, fuehrer of a reich expanded bloodlessly last week by his Austrian coup, had proclaimed himself the "protector" of all Germanic peoples on Germany's borders in his February 20 Reichstag speech.

Incorporation of Czechoslovakia's 3,500,000 Sudeten Germans is believed to be the next objective of Hitler's pan-Germanism.

Premier Leon Blum summoned his cabinet to decide on steps to safeguard the Spanish frontier and France's Mediterranean route to her African colonies.

The premier conferred through the night with defense ministers and the general staff, and a feeling was apparently in official circles that the latest developments in both Spain and Austria could lead to grave consequences.

Spain Seeks French Aid

Spain's Premier Juan Negrin appealed for French aid and was reported to have told the French government his army could not hold out without French aid against the mass Insurgent offensive.

The French secret service reports said the Insurgent army included many German and Italian troops.

As a result of the day's events, France's war fears reached the highest pitch since the World war.

Officials indicated the least the cabinet could do would be to reinforce strongly French garrisons along the French-Spanish frontier.

The Paris press displayed reports that squadrons of German warplanes, both bombers and fighters of the latest types, and additional units of German artillery had reached Spain

Government officials feared the troops in Spain would be directed against France's southern frontier if there should be war over Czechoslovakia.

Similarly, the troops in Austria could be thrown against Czechoslovakia.

France was concerned, too, for the safety of her colonel communications through the Mediterranean.

The government sent three warships to Barcelona to protect French citizens and property as rumors reached Paris that the Spanish government was near collapse.

Officials said France would continue to act in "constant contact" with Britain.

Franco's Drive Halted in Spain

Hendaye, France, at the Spanish Frontier, March 16 (AP)—Stubborn resistance by Government forces brought Generalissimo Francisco Franco's swift drive to the sea to an abrupt halt today.

The Insurgent general staff ordered a heavy concentration of troops east of Alcaniz to speed back 30 miles to Caspe, fearing their offensive may have over-reached itself and exposed their right flank.

Although Insurgent dispatches Tuesday night announced their motorized forces had complete occupation of Caspe with little or no resistance, today they said a heavy battle was being fought in the city's outskirts

Il Duce Promises To Defend Frontiers

Rome, March 16 (AP)—Benito Mussolini today promised his people that the pan-German expansion never would penetrate Italian frontiers but at the same time pronounced a benediction on Adolf Hitler's absorption of Austria.

"Our frontiers are sacred," Il Duce shouted to an assemblage that filled the Chamber of Deputies.

"We will not discuss them. We will defend them."

His promise was broadcast to all Italy. It was the premier's reply to doubts of his own people, alarmed over the extension of a mighty German state to the Brenner pass gateway between Austria and Italy.

In public squares throughout Italy Mussolini's followers gathered around loud speakers to hear Il Duce, hoping for reassurance concerning the German surge southward.

Neither the declaration of Saturday's Fascist grand council nor repeated assertions in the press that the anschluss bore no menace for Italy had entirely appeased popular anxiety and chagrin.

Mussolini declared it would have been "an historical and political absurdity" for Austria, a German state, to have remained independent and anti-German.

Il Duce referred to his dispatch of Italian troops to the Brenner pass when Austria's Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss was assassinated July 25, 1934—a gesture to prevent Nazification of Austria

"No Austrian ever thanked me for that," he said.

He declared that the Versailles treaty provision that Austria must remain forever independent was "absurd and precarious."

He denied that Italy ever had undertaken to guarantee permanently Austrian independence.

British Draft Foreign Policy

London, March 16 (AP)—The British cabinet was understood to have discussed today the wisdom of a Sterner British policy toward the mounting tide of Nazi-Fascist victory or power in three trouble spots, Austria, Spain and Czechoslovakia.

In a session lasting nearly two hours the ministers reviewed plans for speeding up Britain's huge rearmament program and sought to draft a statement on foreign policy which Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain is expected to deliver in Parliament next week.

Reports of friction between Poland and Lithuania also claimed the government's attention, and Sir Howard Kennard, ambassador to Poland, was instructed to make inquiries at Warsaw.

London's, as well as Europe's major war fears, however, centered on Spain as Germany's Adolf Hitler returned to Berlin, his conquest of Austria complete.

The German embassy in London denied as "false and untrue in every detail" the report published Tuesday night by the Spanish Government news agency that 30,000 German storm troopers were en route from a German port to Spain to help end the Civil war in an Insurgent victory.

Austrians Seek Hitler's 'Benefits'

Vienna, March 16 (AP).—Nazis of the German province of Austria called a halt today to four days of patriotic ecstacy and began to look for the profits promised under the regime of Fuehrer Hitler.

Many firms, in expectancy of better times under the accomplished union with Nazi Germany, granted double or half pay increases for one month Others offered to buy Nazi party uniforms for their employes

Stores that had been closed since Saturday reopened

The National bank announced immediate payment of funds owed to Austrians by Germans These funds had been tied up in Germany by exchange clearing agreements

Exportation of timber—one of Austria's biggest industries was prohibited because Germany expects to absorb the immediate output

Textile factories were putting on double shifts to manufacture Nazi uniforms, now in great demand

Flush with spending money, German soldiers and Storm Troopers continued to keep cash registers of beer cellars coffee houses and night clubs ringing merrily.

Meanwhile, it was announced the question on which Austrians will vote April 10 would be:

"Do you acknowledge our Fuehrer Adolf Hitler and thereby agree to reunion of Austria with the German Reich (government) accomplished March 13?"

Almost unanimous approval was predicted. Jews were barred from voting

Farms that participate in the program will be divided into two groups—allotment and non-allotment farms.

Under the program payments will be made for keeping the acres grown within the allotments established for the individual farm and for carrying out soil-conserving practices.

STOCK REPORT

New York, March 16 (AP)—Moderate selling in the stock market today ate up most of the gains scored on a rally in the preceding session. Only aviation shares as a group bucked the main decline for small advances. Losses of fractions to around two points ruled in rail and leading industrial shares toward mid-day. European events again held the attention to financial centers but left traders in the dark as to the next decisive move. Liquidation continued in foreign bonds, particularly central European issues.

2 'STOWAWAYS' GIVEN RIDE ON LAST RIVER RAFT

Clearfield, Pa., March 16 (AP)—The Susquehanna river's "last raft"—carrying old-time lumbermen down stream on a sentimental journey in the manner of their youth—swept on today, its stowaway problem solved.

As the 112-foot leg raft shot under a bridge Tuesday on the second leg of its 200-mile journey to Harrisburg, two youths dropped from low girders.

They were discovered immediately, but couldn't be put off in midstream, so remained board and enjoyed the trip until the craft tied up for the night. Then they were sent home.

The raft leaves here early today for a 50-mile voyage to Keating. Expertly piloted by its veteran woodsmen crew the huge craft Tuesday safely swept through the two-mile long Chest falls, swung easily around treacherous Pen curve and plunged over the six-foot Curwensville dam.

Thirty-eight passengers beside the crew of six, two pilots and the sponsor of the trip, R. D. Tonkin, of Tyrone, were aboard the craft as it made its second day's run.

As many persons lined the highway along the river the raft shot through Chest falls.

O. Z. Tonkin, who with Harry Connors piloted a raft down the Susquehanna 26 years ago, said "we didn't even see" the Curwensville falls.

R. D. Tonkin presented to Boy Scouts at Cherry Tree a large auger, used in building the raft. It will be carried down the river by relays of boy Scouts, changing hands at points where the raft ties up and at Harrisburg will be presented to Governor George H. Earle.

PLAN TO HELP SKILLED LABOR

Washington, March 16 (AP)—Secretary Ickes considered today a plan to give employment to more skilled workers on Pennsylvania relief projects, while American Federation of Labor officials held off a projected strike which threatened to tie up the state's entire $65,000,000 public works building program.

The plan retains the preference for unemployed who are on relief rolls and gives first call for remaining jobs to those others in the vicinity of the project.

The new arrangement, which gives local unemployed not on relief rolls the next claim on jobs, before relief recipients beyond the vicinity of any given project, was worked out here Tuesday by Governor Earle, other state officials and P.W.A. representatives.

A large part of the $20,000,000 P.W.A. grant for the building program was based on a regulation requiring hiring from relief lists. Earle said many skilled unemployed were "too proud to go on relief, which we must respect."

The governor said he did not know whether Ickes could give final approval to the proposal, or whether it would have to go to the President. Pending a decision, A. F. of L. representatives said they would recommend to their members a week's postponement of strike action.

$180,000 FIRE ROUSES 60 IN CATHOLIC DORM

Herman, Pa., March 16 (AP).—Sixty students, clad in night clothing and wrapped in blankets, fled in the chill early hours today as a spectacular fire swept the main building of St. Fidelis seminary.

Sixty-six younger students in a fire-proof wing fled from that structure in orderly procession and stood through the cold hours till dawn watching firemen from nearby towns save the nearby monastery and other buildings.

The Rev. Bertrand Brookman, 39-year-old director of the school conducted by priests of the Order of Capuchin Franciscan fathers in this village 35 miles from Pittsburgh, estimated damage at $180,000. He said that he had "no idea" what started the blaze but that it originated in a work shop.

The destroyed four-story brick building contained classrooms, laboratories, bowling alleys, the dormitories of the 60 senior students studying for the priesthood and a 7,000-volume library. The boys lost all personal belongings.

Father Brookman, who narrowly escaped with his life, praised Father Victor Green for leading the boys to safety. He ordered activities at the school suspended and the boys sent to their homes.

Two seniors, awakened by smoke, aroused Father Green, and he ordered them to round up all in the burning building and to ring an alarm bell. Then the priest, with several others, led the youths to a fire escape.

Outside, they discovered Father Brookman had not been awakened and screamed his name. This aroused the director.

Detailing his escape, Father Brookman said:

"The smoke hit me and I stumbled blindly for a moment or two. I lost my sense of direction. I finally felt the bannister and practically slid down.

"I groped around at the foot of the stairway and felt a pane of glass. I gave a push and fell through into open air."

Walter Heasley, 23-year-old janitor overcome by smoke, suffered minor burns and was taken to a Butler hospital.

2 on Pardon Board Oppose Hawk Appeal

Ralph E. Hawk, of Franklin county, lost his appeal from a death sentence before the pardon board today.

Harrisburg, March 16 (AP)—Two members of Pensylvania's pardon board expressed the opinion today that Ralph E. Hawk, of Franklin county, should pay with his life for the "torch" slayings of the mother and sister of the girl he was to marry.

"He knew the difference between right and wrong," said Thomas A. Logue, as the board considered an appeal by counsel for Hawk.

"There is no question that this was an atrocious crime," said Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti. "It was cold-blooded. It is such a crime where the perpetrator should pay the supreme penalty unless the defendant is mentally unstable, as decided by a court. Where is there anything in this case to show a degree of emotional instability to justify this crime?"

British Draft Foreign Policy

London, March 16 (AP)—The British cabinet was understood to have discussed today the wisdom of a Sterner British policy toward the mounting tide of Nazi-Fascist victory or power in three trouble spots, Austria, Spain and Czechoslovakia.

In a session lasting nearly two hours the ministers reviewed plans for speeding up Britain's huge rearmament program and sought to draft a statement on foreign policy which Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain is expected to deliver in Parliament next week.

Reports of friction between Poland and Lithuania also claimed the government's attention, and Sir Howard Kennard, ambassador to Poland, was instructed to make inquiries at Warsaw.

London's, as well as Europe's major war fears, however, centered on Spain as Germany's Adolf Hitler returned to Berlin, his conquest of Austria complete.

The German embassy in London denied as "false and untrue in every detail" the report published Tuesday night by the Spanish Government news agency that 30,000 German storm troopers were en route from a German port to Spain to help end the Civil war in an Insurgent victory.

Austrians Seek Hitler's 'Benefits'

Vienna, March 16 (AP).—Nazis of the German province of Austria called a halt today to four days of patriotic ecstacy and began to look for the profits promised under the regime of Fuehrer Hitler.

Many firms, in expectancy of better times under the accomplished union with Nazi Germany, granted double or half pay increases for one month. Others offered to buy Nazi party uniforms for their employes.

Stores that had been closed since Saturday reopened.

The National bank announced immediate payment of funds owed to Austrians by Germans. These funds had been tied up in Germany by exchange clearing agreements.

Exportation of timber—one of Austria's biggest industries—was prohibited because Germany expects to absorb the immediate output.

Textile factories were putting on double shifts to manufacture Nazi uniforms, now in great demand.

Flush with spending money, German soldiers and Storm Troopers continued to keep cash registers of beer cellars, coffee houses and night clubs ringing merrily.

Meanwhile, it was announced the question on which Austrians will vote April 10 would be:

"Do you acknowledge our Fuehrer Adolf Hitler and thereby agree to reunion of Austria with the German Reich (government) accomplished March 13?"

Almost unanimous approval was predicted. Jews were barred from voting.

PREPARE TO START CONSERVATION PROGRAM

The 1938 agricultural conservation program is now being announced and the Adams county agricultural conservation committee is preparing to enroll farmers who wish to participate in the program this year.

Farms that participate in the program will be divided into two groups—allotment and non-allotment farms.

An allotment farm will be any farm growing either tobacco, over three acres of potatoes, 100 bushels of wheat for sale or commercial vegetables on more than half of the crop land and after excluding the acres in potatoes and tobacco allotments. All other farms will be non-allotment farms.

Under the program payments will be made for keeping the acres grown within the allotments established for the individual farm and for carrying out soil-conserving practices.

STOCK REPORT

New York, March 16 (AP)—Moderate selling in the stock market today wiped out most of the gains scored on a rally in the preceding session. Only aviation shares as a group bucked the main decline for small advances. Losses of fractions to around two points ruled in rail and leading industrial shares toward mid-day. European events again held the attention to financial centers but left traders in the dark as to the next decisive move. Liquidation continued in foreign bonds, particularly central European issues.

OPPOSE DRINKING SCENES

Harrisburg, March 16 (AP)—A declaration of "emphatic disapproval" of motion picture scenes depicting drinking, banditry and other lawlessness, was prepared today for the annual convention of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women. The stand was taken by the resolutions committee drafting statements of policy to be submitted to the organization when it meets in Pittsburgh in May.

TRACE LEVINE CLUE

New Rochelle, N. Y., March 16 (AP).—A ragged-garbed, elderly man who volunteered possibly vital information in connection with the 20-day-old kidnaping of Peter Levine, 12, son of a New York lawyer, was questioned by New Rochelle police and G-men today. "I saw two men in the empty, two-story frame house a block from the Levine home, where one of the ransom notes was found, on the day of the kidnaping," the man was quoted by police as saying.

HOUSING PROJECT STARTS

Narberth, Pa., March 16 (AP)—The first large-scale housing project in Eastern Pennsylvania to be assured by the Federal Housing administration—the $500,000 Narberth Apartments, Inc.—was under way today. Leo A. Kirk, regional F.H.A. director, turned the first spade of earth at ground-breaking ceremonies Tuesday.

2 'STOWAWAYS' GIVEN RIDE ON LAST RIVER RAFT

Clearfield, Pa., March 16 (AP)—The Susquehanna river's "last raft"—carrying old-time lumbermen down stream on a sentimental journey in the manner of their youth—swept on today, its stowaway problem solved.

As the 112-foot leg raft shot under a bridge Tuesday on the second leg of its 200-mile journey to Harrisburg, two youths dropped from low girders.

They were discovered immediately, but couldn't be put off in midstream, so remained board and enjoyed the trip until the craft tied up for the night. Then they were sent home.

The raft leaves here early today for a 50-mile voyage to Keating. Expertly piloted by its veteran woodsmen crew the huge craft Tuesday safely swept through the two-mile long Chest falls, swung easily around treacherous Pen curve and plunged over the six-foot Curwensville dam.

Thirty-eight passengers beside the crew of six, two pilots and the sponsor of the trip, R. D. Tonkin, of Tyrone, were aboard the craft as it made its second day's run.

As many persons lined the highway along the river the raft shot through Chest falls.

O. Z. Tonkin, who with Harry Connors piloted a raft down the Susquehanna 26 years ago, said "we didn't even see" the Curwensville falls.

R. D. Tonkin presented to Boy Scouts at Cherry Tree a large auger, used in building the raft. It will be carried down the river by relays of boy Scouts, changing hands at points where the raft ties up and at Harrisburg will be presented to Governor George H. Earle.

PLAN TO HELP SKILLED LABOR

Washington, March 16 (AP)—Secretary Ickes considered today a plan to give employment to more skilled workers on Pennsylvania relief projects, while American Federation of Labor officials held off a projected strike which threatened to tie up the state's entire $65,000,000 public works building program.

The plan retains the preference for unemployed who are on relief rolls and gives first call for remaining jobs to those others in the vicinity of the project.

The new arrangement, which gives local unemployed not on relief rolls the next claim on jobs, before relief recipients beyond the vicinity of any given project, was worked out here Tuesday by Governor Earle, other state officials and P.W.A. representatives.

A large part of the $20,000,000 P.W.A. grant for the building program was based on a regulation requiring hiring from relief lists. Earle said many skilled unemployed were "too proud to go on relief, which we must respect."

The governor said he did not know whether Ickes could give final approval to the proposal, or whether it would have to go to the President. Pending a decision, A. F. of L. representatives said they would recommend to their members a week's postponement of strike action.

POLICE TRACE BULLETS

Pottsville, Pa., March 16 (AP)—State police, who measured bullets and traced their direction, charged two youths today with firing at the home of Michael Under, of Duncott. The youths, John Selkick, 18, and George Matko, 20, said they were shooting at birds.

MEASLES CLOSE SCHOOLS

Norwood, Pa., March 16 (AP)—An outbreak of measles brought an unexpected vacation today to students of the parochial and elementary public schools in this Delaware county community. The schools were closed after 77 cases of the disease were reported.

JUDGE ENTERS PRIMARY

Pittsburgh, March 16 (AP)—Judge Ralph H. Smith of the Allegheny county common pleas bench announced today his candidacy for lieutenant governor on the Democratic ticket as the running-mate of Thomas Kennedy C.I.O.-John L. Lewis endorsed candidate for Governor.

REPORTS LIQUOR TAXES

Harrisburg, March 16 (AP)—Pennsylvania collected $416,139 in beer and liquor taxes during February, secretary of Revenue J. Griffith Boardman reported today. The collections bring to $5,746,985 the amount of revenue from this source since last June.

Moscow, March 16 (AP).—The 18 defendants sentenced to death in the latest purge trial of Soviet Russia have been executed. They received long prison terms.

MINERS DEFIANT

Minersville, Pa., March 16 (AP)—Striking free-lance miners resolved today to drive their breaker operators "out of business" unless the latter pay an agreed price for their coal. "We won't want them if they are going to exploit us," P. Joseph Brennan, president of the Independent Anthracite Miners association, said. "We'll drive them out of business."

Arendtsville vocational school's basketball teams enjoyed one of their most successful seasons during the season which closed last Friday.

Both Kane and Raff are members of the senior class and their absence next year will be a severe loss to the Arendtsville cagers. Seeks Job to Finish Book on Civil War

Baltimore, March 16 (AP).—Mrs. Nettie Mudd Monroe, whose father set John Wilkes Booth's broken leg after the assassination of President Lincoln, is seeking a job as an accountant because she needs $200 to complete research for a Civil war romance.

Mrs. Monroe has asked the state employment service to help her find work. The story she is writing is based on fact, she said. It concerns a young confederate who smuggled money from Baltimore to the south.

In her home, said Mrs Monroe, is a couch on which Booth reclined while her father, Dr. Samuel Mudd, mended the leg the actor broke in escaping from Ford's opera house after Lincoln was shot.

Gets $375 for .37 Acre Of Appropriated Land

Harrisburg, March 16 (AP).—The Public Utility commission today awarded John G. Royer of Ephrata, Lancaster county, $375 for 0.37 of an acre of land, appropriated in the abolition of a crossing of state highway No. 148, over tracks of the Reading railroad.

Damages were assessed against Lancaster county, with the railroad required to pay the county one-half the cost, $187.50.

Royer had claimed that in the construction of a new highway and bridge over the railroad, at the dividing line between Ephrata borough and Ephrata township, had made his property no longer available for buildings.

The purpose of the dual meet is to promote good will between the schools.

Members of both squads will be awarded their letters and numerals during the program.

Congress May Regulate Rail Holding Companies

Washington, March 16 (AP)—Strict regulation—if not out-right abolition—of railroad stockholding companies may be proposed at this session of Congress, administration advisers said today.

Although Chairman Wheeler (D-Mont) of the Senate railroad investigating committee said no legislation had been drafted yet, he indicated the problem was undergoing thorough study.

The action would be one result of President Roosevelt's search for ways to relieve the financial distress of the nation's rail lines.

LEGAL BATTLE EXPECTED OVER GOLD TREASURE

Bloomsburg, Pa., March 16 (AP)—The puzzle over who rightfully owns $2,890 in gold found buried in the cellar of an old house took on aspects of a three-way legal battle today.

F. Harold Kline, a potato chip dealer, served four persons with a demand they return 149 gold eagles, which he claimed his father cached a half-century ago.

A laborer uncovered the forgotten hoard two weeks ago when deepening the cellar as part of a contract to remodel the house. In the exciting search for more gold the cellar was dug two feet lower than specifications required.

John Johnson, the laborer, handed over 57 of the $20 gold coins to E. R. Beers, present owner of the house, and kept 92. Beers gave four of the pieces to Harry Erwine, contractor on the job, and one to Isaac Zimmerman, another laborer.

Learning of the find, Kline took legal steps to obtain the gold. It belonged to the estate of his father, Frank Pierce Kline, who died in 1890, he said.

Appointed administrator of the estate Tuesday, Kline demanded that Johnson and the three other men return the money. His attorneys said they were prepared to establish his claim in court.

Under the treasure trove law, however, Johnson declared the gold was rightfully his. His counsel, C. Edward Kreisher, said he would file in the Columbia county court today a suit to recover the 57 double eagles John gave Beers.

Then a new claim was added to the legal tangle. Attorneys for George Hill, a laborer, said he first spied the gold and was entitled to share it equally with Johnson.

New quiet, from "silent zone" body mounting. New comfort, from deep, broad comfort-angled seats. New pride of possession, from style hailed as the smartest of the year.

Yet big and satisfying as this beautiful Buick is, a little money buys it! No more than you'll pay for some sixes. Less than for any other eight of its size.

So there's no longer any reason for not stepping up to the kind of car you've always wanted.

Seeks Job to Finish Book on Civil War

Baltimore, March 16 (AP).—Mrs. Nettie Mudd Monroe, whose father set John Wilkes Booth's broken leg after the assassination of President Lincoln, is seeking a job as an accountant because she needs $200 to complete research for a Civil war romance.

Mrs. Monroe has asked the state employment service to help her find work. The story she is writing is based on fact, she said. It concerns a young confederate who smuggled money from Baltimore to the south.

In her home, said Mrs. Monroe, is a couch on which Booth reclined while her father, Dr. Samuel Mudd, mended the leg the actor broke in escaping from Ford's opera house after Lincoln was shot.

Gets $375 for .37 Acre Of Appropriated Land

Harrisburg, March 16 (AP).—The Public Utility commission today awarded John G. Royer of Ephrata, Lancaster county, $375 for 0.37 of an acre of land, appropriated in the abolition of a crossing of state highway No. 148, over tracks of the Reading railroad.

Damages were assessed against Lancaster county, with the railroad required to pay the county one-half the cost, $187.50.

Royer had claimed that in the construction of a new highway and bridge over the railroad, at the dividing line between Ephrata borough and Ephrata township, had made his property no longer available for buildings.

Plan Play-Day at Hanover, April 9

Tentative plans for a "play-day" for girls of Gettysburg and Hanover high schools to be held at Hanover high school Saturday afternoon, April 9, at 1:30 o'clock, were outlined at a meeting of school officials at Hanover Tuesday evening.

As now planned Miss Relda Green, health instructor at Gettysburg high school, will take four intra-class basketball teams and either three or six volley ball teams to Hanover for participation. Other forms of gymnastic work may be added to the program.

The purpose of the dual meet is to promote good will between the schools.

Members of both squads will be awarded their letters and numerals during the program.

Decide to Keep '40 Olympics in Tokyo

Cairo, Egypt, March 16 (AP)—The international Olympics congress definiely announced today the 1940 Olympics would be held in Tokyo, September 9 to October 26.

The proposal by the Chinese delegate, Dr. C. T. Wang, that the games not be held in any country at war was rejected.

The congress demanded, however, that Tokyo's international exhibition be closed a month prior to opening of the Olympics.

Congress May Regulate Rail Holding Companies

Washington, March 16 (AP)—Strict regulation—if not out-right abolition—of railroad stockholding companies may be proposed at this session of Congress, administration advisers said today.

Although Chairman Wheeler (D-Mont) of the Senate railroad investigating committee said no legislation had been drafted yet, he indicated the problem was undergoing thorough study.

The action would be one result of President Roosevelt's search for ways to relieve the financial distress of the nation's rail lines.

New York, March 16 (AP)—Walter St. Denis, master publicist for Mike Jacobs, is in Chicago whooping up the Joe Louis—Harry Thomas Brawl and I'll swear you can hear the guy from here. . . . Boston Bees have three sons of former major leaguers on their roster—Gene Moore, whose dad once twirled for the Pirates; Carl Maggert, whose pater outfielded for the Athletics and a kid named Delrake whose pop used to chase flies in the Detroit gardens along with Ty Cobb and Sam Crawford. . . . Why are New York writers with the Jints calling him "Fraud" Frick—is it because of the dead ball?

Jackie (Kid) Berg's fine comeback has landed him on the big time and he'll go against Larry Anzalone at the Hippodrome here March 23. . . Tom Yawkey and his millions haven't bought a pennant for good old "Beantown" yet, but they've managed to assemble an all-star outfield in the Messrs. Ben Chapman, Roger Cramer and Joe Vosmik. . . . These gents started for the American league in the 1935 all-star game. . . . How about a guy named Javorski of Rhode Island who rang up 439 pernts during the basketball season? . . . Did any collitch cager better that mark?

Ernie Lombardi and Virgil Davis of the Reds are running a race to see who is the world's worst base runner. . . So far in their long major league career each has swiped five sacks. . . By a strange quirk, each has a lifetime batting average of .315. . . . Rogers Hornsby, the greatest right-hand hitter the game ever knew, is shopping in the minors and may sign with Minneapolis. . . Here's a prediction: Joe Louis will kayo Harry Thomas, then kako Max Schmeling, then fight Maxie Baer in the nearest approach to a $2,000,000 gate since Dempsey and Tunney met in Chicago 11 years ago.

You should see Rudy York, who's actually happy at being a catcher, slamming the ball over the fences at Lakeland. . . . Mickey Cochrane is grinning from here to Detroit. . . Joe DiMaggio, who has seen the light, will be at St. Pete any day now—which isn't much news, at that . . . Lefty Gomez is having his troubles, but he is as nimble-witted as ever. . . Izzy Kaplan, famous photographer of the New York Mirror, was telling Lefty how to pitch. . . . "Go to bed early and cover your head with the sheets," advised Izzy. . . "And do all my tossing in bed?" came back Gomez.

LEGAL BATTLE EXPECTED OVER GOLD TREASURE

Bloomsburg, Pa., March 16 (AP)—The puzzle over who rightfully owns $2,890 in gold found buried in the cellar of an old house took on aspects of a three-way legal battle today.

F. Harold Kline, a potato chip dealer, served four persons with a demand they return 149 gold eagles, which he claimed his father cached a half-century ago.

A laborer uncovered the forgotten hoard two weeks ago when deepening the cellar as part of a contract to remodel the house. In the exciting search for more gold the cellar was dug two feet lower than specifications required.

John Johnson, the laborer, handed over 57 of the $20 gold coins to E. R. Beers, present owner of the house, and kept 92. Beers gave four of the pieces to Harry Erwine, contractor on the job, and one to Isaac Zimmerman, another laborer.

Learning of the find, Kline took legal steps to obtain the gold. It belonged to the estate of his father, Frank Pierce Kline, who died in 1890, he said.

Appointed administrator of the estate Tuesday, Kline demanded that Johnson and the three other men return the money. His attorneys said they were prepared to establish his claim in court.

Under the treasure trove law, however, Johnson declared the gold was rightfully his. His counsel, C. Edward Kreisher, said he would file in the Columbia county court today a suit to recover the 57 double eagles John gave Beers.

Then a new claim was added to the legal tangle. Attorneys for George Hill, a laborer, said he first spied the gold and was entitled to share it equally with Johnson.

Canada produced nearly nine and a half million cases of canned vegetables in 1937 compared with 7,948,240 cases in 1936.

ASK your friends, ask your neighbors, what they think of this '38 Buick, and they'll give it to you quick in six little words:

"It's a honey for the money!"

That's praise all right—but praise that still doesn't do this great car full justice!

For here's a traveler that would be a buy even if you had to pay a premium to get it!

It's a car with power like no other. Power literally born of the hurricane—power that makes gasoline deliver more—power that's smooth, willing, brilliant.

Here's a car, too, with an utterly different kind of ride. A ride that gentles every jar and jolt. A ride that's safer in nasty going, that gives sureness to control, that cuts down upkeep and makes rear tires last longer.

And here's a car that in addition sparkles with features as a Christmas tree sparkles with ornaments.

New quiet, from "silent zone" body mounting. New comfort, from deep, broad comfort-angled seats. New pride of possession, from style hailed as the smartest of the year.

Yet big and satisfying as this beautiful Buick is, a little money buys it! No more than you'll pay for some sixes. Less than for any other eight of its size.

So there's no longer any reason for not stepping up to the kind of car you've always wanted.

Go now and get the details from the nearest Buick dealer—see the car that folks just won't do without.

ANOTHER GUEST

THE table had been set and dinner was ready. They all took their places when there was a knock at the door.

Willy Nilly opened it and there stood the chimpanzee. He looked almost like a little old man with very large ears and when Willy Nilly saw him like this — away from the Empey House he thought that soon he must be attending to the business of his own sticking-out, pointed ears.

"I heard you were giving a dinner party," said the chimpanzee. "I, too, like to eat at a table once in a while. You should see the tricks I do when I'm in the show."

"Don't boast," said the orang-utan. "You may be brighter than the gorilla but you and I are about equal in intelligence. Sit down and have a glass of water to cool your tongue."

"I was born in Africa," said the chimpanzee.

"I was born in Puddle Muddle," cackled Top Notch, who was not going to be outdone.

"It's all the same to me," said the chimpanzee.

"But not to me," cackled Top Notch. "I am thankful I was born in Puddle Muddle. I know the country around here. I do not know Africa."

"Let's have dinner," said the orang-utan. "I'd love a banana."

"You can't begin a meal with a banana" quacked Mrs. Quacko.

"Maybe you can't," said the orang-utan, "but I can." And he helped himself to a banana in the center of the table, peeled it carefully and then ate it slowly.

But before he had helped himself to another there came the sounds of excited growls.

Whitney Admits Theft Of Yacht Club Funds

New York, March 16 (AP)—Richard Whitney today pleaded guilty to a second indictment charging grand larceny, for the theft of securities worth $109,384 from the New York Yacht club of which he was treasurer.

In a clear, resonant voice, Whitney replied to the court clerk when asked how he pleaded.

"Guilty," he said.

The former president of the New York Stock Exchange, who was head of the bankrupt firm of Richard Whitney and company, was indicted by the New York county grand jury Tuesday on evidence adduced by the attorney general.

The complaint of larceny charged that Whitney, as custodian of the club's securities, had taken them for a personal loan, the funds being placed to the credit of his firm before its insolvency.

LUXURIOUS ACHE

THERE are two kinds of aches—one from happy work and service, and the other from inactivity and regrets.

To come to your bed at night with a luxurious ache is something to make you proud. To feel the very muscles of the body relaxing and arranging for their unconscious rest—happily tired from the labor of the day, yet not weary, is to own a small acreage of Joy!

It is worry, not work, that wears away the fine fibres of this bodily life of ours. Not to know a luxurious ache at the close of a day is to miss one of life's major experiences.

No one minds the ache, which has as its reward, smiling faces about the hearth, or a mine of knowledge awaiting upon the shelves at home. Anticipation alone erases all ache and blesses it with a heavenly health. I have watched great lines of tramping feet leaving the toil of factories, or office, and I have speculated upon the aches in those hearts as well as limbs. Each in lesser or greater degree, but each proportioned according to its own objective under some roof beyond.

Each of us bargains for the joy that we own, and each of us weighs out the price that we are willing to pay for our sorrows or regrets.

If we are happy we don't mind the price we pay for our aches. We pay with our sense of satisfaction, neither asking nor expecting further compensation

Whoever counts the weary hours beside the sickbed of one beloved?

The planter from the field, plodding his way to rest for the night, has only thoughts for the harvest a little way ahead. This each of us all through life, must count the aches in terms of the end—and always with a glad acceptance of heart.

The Story So Far: Red-headed Cissy Rogers, in love with Reuben Oliver, swoops down in her plane to find out what or who is keeping him buried in the heart of Maryland's hunting district. Both Reuben and Cissy's father have made a fortune in oil, but Reuben has dropped out of the race. Seeing Reuben again, Cissy realizes something has changed him.

Chapter Two

The Evening Star

The thought of life without Reuben in it stretched a drab road—an intolerable road, a lonely road, even though all the world and his wife danced along it. Cissy said slowly: "The oil wells need watching too. Dad can't be there at this time. You can and should be on the job."

"There's a good man in charge," defensively.

"No man is good enough to do his own work well and another fellow's too."

Because this was true, it nettled him. A frown darkened his face. "You sound like an oracle or something."

"Better listen to me then."

"Oh—for Pete's sake, Cissy!" He grinned down at her as suddenly as he had frowned, "Don't let's quarrel. Not begrudging me the first little holiday I've ever had, are you?"

"No," but she wanted to share it with him. They walked on, not in the old friendly silence, but in a strained, uneasy one which lasted until they came in sight of the house.

Long, low, rambling, it was set in a wind gap between two hills and half hidden by trees. Scaffolding covered one entire side from foundation to roof. Bricks, mortar, lumber made the lawn unsightly.

"There's my castle!"

Cissy, used to the glitter of the Gold Coast, started in wordless disappointment at the unassuming old house.

"I've always dreamed of owning just such a place," Reuben said half shyly.

"It wasn't a dream," flippantly, "it was a nightmare."

"You don't like it?" with small boy disappointment.

"I'm not educated up to old wrecks. Even in Rome with everyone ranting, I couldn't get all stewed up over broken stone pillars and cracked walls."

"Wait 'til you see what I mean to do," enthusiastically.

"Rebuild?"

"Restore."

"There's a difference?"

"You'd be surprised. They go in for that sort of thing here. Many of the people around are living on original grants from the King."

Pedigree

Cissy was not impressed. "That's nothing to be proud of. Gifts—Anyone can live on charity. Everyone can't earn their own."

"Are you telling me? Look, Cissy, I'm going to plant rhododendrons here."

Plant rhododendrons! She looked at him speculatively. A stranger! A Reuben she didn't know, who brushed aside the most important factors in his life—lumber, oil, and the fact that he was losing money lightly, but kindled with enthusiasm at the mention of a few shrubs.

You'll have to plant more than rhododendrons," practically. "You can sink a gold mine before you make a show."

"I don't want to make a show."

"Everyone wants to make one kind of show or another. You've gone Green Spring Valley."

"This is the Worthington Valley."

"It's all the same," contemptuously. "Someone told me an old saw, the other day—" not for worlds would she have him know she questioned and listened avidly to all the information she could get—"Something about the Green Spring Valley—

—Land of blue grass and blue blood—

Where horses bow only to Goodloes and Goodloes bow only to God!'

or some blah like that. Buying your way?"

"I couldn't if I wanted to."

"Act your age!"

"They go in for pedigrees in this Valley—men, horses, cattle, chickens. A man who isn't sure of name, whose only background is an orphanage, has no chance at all, Cissy."

Suddenly she wanted to cry over him. She said crisply: "Why do you stay here? It's not like you to crawl."

"I'm not crawling," proudly.

She turned her amazing green eyes full upon him and said above a torturous tightness in her chest: "It's a girl that's keeping you. Don't lie, Rube."

He had no intention of lying. He simply hadn't analyzed, even for his own conviction, just what was keeping him here away from a busy world that was beginning to bow to him. He stood and looked at her a bit dazedly, as though she had rudely awakened him from a dream. As though her statement made that dream a reality.

"What's her name?" demanded Cissy on a muted note.

"Judith Goodloe."

The Go Getter Wins'

"Goodloe!" Her knees felt suddenly wobbly. She sat down on a log.

"She isn't keeping me," Reuben said. An hour ago he could have said it with conviction.

"What," Cissy shivered—the day wasn't so warm after all—"is she like?"

As if he could put into words all the perfection of Judith! "Like nothing on God's earth."

"He has reached for the moon," she thought, "I might have known he would." She said: "As bad as that!" She had herself in hand again, "I'd like to see her." She wondered what manner of girl could so enchant Reuben who had always been indifferent. Since she had been four Cissy considered herself Rube's one and only girl—

"When the folks get here throw a party, Rube. Call her up and ask her over!"

"Call—Miss Goodloe?"

"Why not?"

Slow color crept up under his tan. "Cissy, see that pine over on the hill? The evening star rises just behind it these nights. She's as far out of my reach as that star. She always will be, so let's forget her."

"Suits me!" But Cissy knew that Judith Goodloe's name was graven somewhere deep within her in livid, scarring letters. "Don't you ever see her, Rube?"

"I look at her when she rides by," whimsically.

"You're trying to tell me—?"

"I've not said a dozen words to her."

"How long have you been a shrinking violet? When you want a thing you usually roll up your sleeves and go after it."

"This is different."

"Nothing is different. The go getter wins." Why was she talking like a fool?

"I've never been invited to her home and won't be if I live here a thousand years. Goodloes, in the parlance of this country, don't run with the field."

"The poor goofs!" disgustedly. "I've known the day when that wouldn't have stopped you if you wanted to go."

Just Folks

SERVANT AND MISTRESS

Madam was tired this morning and complained.
I'd left the window open and it rained.
The children woke her, racing up the stair.
The noise they make is difficult to bear.
The toast was burned; the coffee growing cold.
Madam, it seems, does nothing now but scold.

She has no wants; no needs; no tedious tasks.
Her husband gladly gives her all she asks;
I dress the children; put away their toys,
But she it is who grumbles at their noise.
I sing while working with my dusting pan
And she it is who wonders that I can.

I'm early up and often late to bed,
But she it is who has the aching head.
I scrub the floors and shine the window panes.
But she it is who oftenest complains.
And strange it seems, with all that money brings
She is the grumbler. I'm the one who sings.

Philadelphia, March 16 (AP)—A stolen package containing enough poison capsules, police said, to kill several persons was the object of a concerted search today. The package disappeared Tuesday night from a truck parked in south Philadelphia near where a group of children were playing.

Transatlantic telephone calls between Canada and countries in Europe and Africa averaged about seven a day during 1937, increasing 70 per cent over 1936.

Flashes of Life

WORTH EVERY SCENT

Harrisburg, Pa. — William Coombes was out $115 today because a skunk sought refuge beneath his home. He dragged the animal on the end of a wire to a back yard. With his $115 shotgun, he aimed and fired. The gun exploded, but enough shot found its mark to kill the skunk. Coombes had forgotten he had stuffed a rag in the barrel when storing the gun for the winter.

NO JACKPOT?

Sundown Story

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

ANOTHER GUEST

THE table had been set and dinner was ready. They all took their places when there was a knock at the door.

Willy Nilly opened it and there stood the chimpanzee. He looked almost like a little old man with very large ears and when Willy Nilly saw him like this — away from the Empey House he thought that soon he must be attending to the business of his own sticking-out, pointed ears.

"I heard you were giving a dinner party," said the chimpanzee. "I, too, like to eat at a table once in a while. You should see the tricks I do when I'm in the show."

"Don't boast," said the orang-utan. "You may be brighter than the gorilla but you and I are about equal in intelligence. Sit down and have a glass of water to cool your tongue."

"I was born in Africa," said the chimpanzee.

"I was born in Puddle Muddle," cackled Top Notch, who was not going to be outdone.

"It's all the same to me," said the chimpanzee.

"But not to me," cackled Top Notch. "I am thankful I was born in Puddle Muddle. I know the country around here. I do not know Africa."

"Let's have dinner," said the orang-utan. "I'd love a banana."

"You can't begin a meal with a banana," quacked Mrs. Quacko.

"Maybe you can't," said the orang-utan, "but I can." And he helped himself to a banana in the center of the table, peeled it carefully and then ate it slowly.

But before he had helped himself to another there came the sounds of excited growls.

Whitney Admits Theft Of Yacht Club Funds

New York, March 16 (AP)—Richard Whitney today pleaded guilty to a second indictment charging grand larceny, for the theft of securities worth $109,384 from the New York Yacht club, of which he was treasurer.

In a clear, resonant voice, Whitney replied to the court clerk when asked how he pleaded.

"Guilty," he said.

The former president of the New York Stock Exchange, who was head of the bankrupt firm of Richard Whitney and company, was indicted by the New York county grand jury Tuesday on evidence adduced by the attorney general.

The complaint of larceny charged that Whitney, as custodian of the club's securities, had taken them for a personal loan, the funds being placed to the credit of his firm before its insolvency.

Today's Talk

—By George Matthew Adams—

LUXURIOUS ACHE

THERE are two kinds of aches—one from happy work and service, and the other from inactivity and regrets.

To come to your bed at night with a luxurious ache is something to make you proud. To feel the very muscles of the body relaxing and arranging for their unconscious rest—happily tired from the labor of the day, yet not weary, is to own a small acreage of Joy!

It is worry, not work, that wears away the fine fibres of this bodily life of ours. Not to know a luxurious ache at the close of a day is to miss one of life's major experiences.

No one minds the ache, which has as its reward, smiling faces about the hearth, or a mine of knowledge awaiting upon the shelves at home. Anticipation alone erases all ache and blesses it with a heavenly health. I have watched great lines of tramping feet leaving the toil of factories, or office, and I have speculated upon the aches in those hearts as well as limbs. Each in lesser or greater degree, but each proportioned according to its own objective under some roof beyond.

Each of us bargains for the joy that we own, and each of us weighs out the price that we are willing to pay for our sorrows or regrets.

If we are happy we don't mind the price we pay for our aches. We pay with our sense of satisfaction, neither asking nor expecting further compensation.

Whoever counts the weary hours beside the sickbed of one beloved?

The planter from the field, plodding his way to rest for the night, has only thoughts for the harvest a little way ahead. Thus each of us all through life, must count the aches in terms of the end—and always with a glad acceptance of heart.

Boxwood Barrier

By Blanche Smith Ferguson

The Story So Far: Red-headed Cissy Rogers, in love with Reuben Oliver, swoops down in her plane to find out what or who is keeping him buried in the heart of Maryland's hunting district. Both Reuben and Cissy's father have made a fortune in oil, but Reuben has dropped out of the race. Seeing Reuben again, Cissy realizes something has changed him.

Chapter Two

The Evening Star

The thought of life without Reuben in it stretched a drab road—an intolerable road, a lonely road, even though all the world and his wife danced along it. Cissy said slowly: "The oil wells need watching too. Dad can't be there at this time. You can and should be on the job."

"There's a good man in charge," defensively.

"No man is good enough to do his own work well and another fellow's too."

Because this was true, it nettled him. A frown darkened his face. "You sound like an oracle or something."

"Better listen to me then."

"Oh—for Pete's sake, Cissy!" He grinned down at her as suddenly as he had frowned. "Don't let's quarrel. Not begrudging me the first little holiday I've ever had, are you?"

"No," but she wanted to share it with him. They walked on, not in the old friendly silence, but in a strained, uneasy one which lasted until they came in sight of the house.

Long, low, rambling, it was set in a wind gap between two hills and half hidden by trees. Scaffolding covered one entire side from foundation to roof. Bricks, mortar, lumber made the lawn unsightly.

"There's my castle!"

Cissy, used to the glitter of the Gold Coast, started in wordless disappointment at the unassuming old house.

"I've always dreamed of owning just such a place," Reuben said half shyly.

"It wasn't a dream," flippantly, "it was a nightmare."

"You don't like it?" with small boy disappointment.

"I'm not educated up to old wrecks. Even in Rome with everyone ranting, I couldn't get all stewed up over broken stone pillars and cracked walls."

"Wait 'til you see what I mean to do," enthusiastically.

"Rebuild?"

"Restore."

"There's a difference?"

"You'd be surprised. They go in for that sort of thing here. Many of the people around are living on original grants from the King."

Pedigree

Cissy was not impressed. "That's nothing to be proud of. Gifts—Anyone can live on charity. Everyone can't earn their own."

"Are you telling me? Look, Cissy, I'm going to plant rhododendrons here."

Plant rhododendrons! She looked at him speculatively. A stranger! A Reuben she didn't know, who brushed aside the most important factors in his life—lumber, oil, and the fact that he was losing money lightly, but kindled with enthusiasm at the mention of a few shrubs.

You'll have to plant more than rhododendrons," practically. "You can sink a gold mine before you make a show."

"I don't want to make a show."

"Everyone wants to make one kind of show or another. You've gone Green Spring Valley."

"This is the Worthington Valley."

"It's all the same," contemptuously. "Someone told me an old saw, the other day—" not for worlds would she have him know she questioned and listened avidly to all the information she could get—"Something about the Green Spring Valley—

—Land of blue grass and blue blood—

Where horses bow only to Goodloes and Goodloes bow only to God!'

or some blah like that. Buying your way?"

"I couldn't if I wanted to."

"Act your age!"

"They go in for pedigrees in this Valley—men, horses, cattle, chickens. A man who isn't sure of name, whose only background is an orphanage, has no chance at all, Cissy."

Suddenly she wanted to cry over him. She said crisply: "Why do you stay here? It's not like you to crawl."

"I'm not crawling," proudly.

She turned her amazing green eyes full upon him and said above a torturous tightness in her chest: "It's a girl that's keeping you. Don't lie, Rube."

He had no intention of lying. He simply hadn't analyzed, even for his own conviction, just what was keeping him here away from a busy world that was beginning to bow to him. He stood and looked at her a bit dazedly, as though she had rudely awakened him from a dream. As though her statement made that dream a reality.

"What's her name?" demanded Cissy on a muted note.

"Judith Goodloe."

'The Go Getter Wins'

"Goodloe!" Her knees felt suddenly wobbly. She sat down on a log.

"She isn't keeping me," Reuben said. An hour ago he could have said it with conviction.

"What," Cissy shivered—the day wasn't so warm after all—"is she like?"

As if he could put into words all the perfection of Judith! "Like nothing on God's earth."

"He has reached for the moon," she thought, "I might have known he would." She said: "As bad as that!" She had herself in hand again. "I'd like to see her." She wondered what manner of girl could so enchant Reuben who had always been indifferent. Since she had been four Cissy considered herself Rube's one and only girl—

"When the folks get here throw a party, Rube. Call her up and ask her over!"

"Call—Miss Goodloe?"

"Why not?"

Slow color crept up under his tan. "Cissy, see that pine over on the hill? The evening star rises just behind it these nights. She's as far out of my reach as that star. She always will be, so let's forget her."

"Suits me!" But Cissy knew that Judith Goodloe's name was graven somewhere deep within her in livid, scarring letters. "Don't you ever see her, Rube?"

"I look at her when she rides by," whimsically.

"You're trying to tell me—?"

"I've not said a dozen words to her."

"How long have you been a shrinking violet? When you want a thing you usually roll up your sleeves and go after it."

"This is different."

"Nothing is different. The go getter wins." Why was she talking like a fool?

"I've never been invited to her home and won't be if I live here a thousand years. Goodloes, in the parlance of this country, don't run with the field."

"The poor goofs!" disgustedly. "I've known the day when that wouldn't have stopped you if you wanted to go."

Just Folks

by EDGAR A. GUEST

SERVANT AND MISTRESS

Madam was tired this morning and complained.
I'd left the window open and it rained.
The children woke her, racing up the stair.
The noise they make is difficult to bear.
The toast was burned; the coffee growing cold.
Madam, it seems, does nothing now but scold.

She has no wants; no needs; no tedious tasks.
Her husband gladly gives her all she asks;
I dress the children; put away their toys,
But she it is who grumbles at their noise.
I sing while working with my dusting pan
And she it is who wonders that I can.

I'm early up and often late to bed,
But she it is who has the aching head.
I scrub the floors and shine the window panes,
But she it is who oftenest complains.
And strange it seems, with all that money brings
She is the grumbler. I'm the one who sings.

POISON DISAPPEARS

Philadelphia, March 16 (AP)—A stolen package containing enough poison capsules, police said, to kill several persons was the object of a concerted search today. The package disappeared Tuesday night from a truck parked in south Philadelphia near where a group of children were playing.

Transatlantic telephone calls between Canada and countries in Europe and Africa averaged about seven a day during 1937, increasing 70 per cent over 1936.

Flashes of Life

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WORTH EVERY SCENT

Harrisburg, Pa. — William Coombes was out $115 today because a skunk sought refuge beneath his home. He dragged the animal on the end of a wire to a back yard. With his $115 shotgun, he aimed and fired. The gun exploded, but enough shot found its mark to kill the skunk. Coombes had forgotten he had stuffed a rag in the barrel when storing the gun for the winter.

NO JACKPOT?

Vincennes, Ind.—Harry Haywood put in a penny and got out—a fire. The coin didn't go into the slot machine as Haywood intended but dropped instead into an electric switch box, causing a short circuit. Damage from the fire was slight.

PICKETS—AND HEDGES

Eugene, Ore.—City council has decreed strike pickets here must: Obtain the city recorder's approval for wording of placards. Pay a $5 license fee every 30 days. Refrain from whistling, singing and speaking to persons entering the picketed establishment.

TOOTHACHE

Spokane, Wash.—A toothache delayed the Northern Pacific land grant case, involving 2,000,000 acres of land and millions of dollars. The tooth belonged to Federal Judge J. Stanley Webster, who said it ached so badly he couldn't follow the arguments.

In the ensuing questioning by police, the driver of the parked car admitted he had stolen it.

It is dangerous to sell a SUBSTITUTE for 666 just to make three or four cents more. Customers are your best assets; lose them and you lose your business. 666 is worth three or four times as much as a SUBSTITUTE.

Farm Calendar

Timely Reminders for Adams County Farmers From State College Specialists

If you are not doing so, begin now to keep a garden record book. Record the dates of sowing seed, planting, and transplanting for each variety. Note the time of bloom of each annual, perennial, and shrub. Keep a record of where and when plants and seeds were purchased and the results obtained. Such a record kept over a period of years will be very valuable, say ornamental horticulturists

Provide Pollination

Where bouquets are to be used in pollinating apple trees enough material should be left at pruning time for the purpose, according to fruit specialists Growers have found that Jonathan, Red Delicious, Grimes Golden, Golden Delicious, McIntosh Gano and Ben Davis are the most satisfactory pollinators for the standard varieties

Reduce Soil Erosion

Topsoil losses from erosion can be reduced by dividing sloping fields into contour strips, say agronomists. Strips of hay or wheat between strips of corn or oats in the crop rotation will break up the slopes into alternate erosion-resisting and erosion-encouraging crops

Take Care of Sheep

A few hours spent in the sheep barn at lambing time will pay large dividends. Livestock specialists point out. However, if the flock has been properly fed and exercised, little trouble should arise.

Use Healthy Seed

It is false economy to use seed potatoes of inferior quality, say plant pathologists Poor stands, lower yields, and low-grade product due to tuber-borne diseases are likely to be the result

Grow Good Plants

Proper watering and ventilation are important practices in the growing of early plants report vegetable gardeners.

TIP FOR BAKERS

Be careful not to fill baking dishes too full Escalloped foods, rice puddings and fondues need about two inches of rising space Foods made with baking powder soda cream of tarter or egg whites require at least three inches.

Sent to Pen to Finish Sentence

John A Jones, Jr., alias Nick Summers, York, charged with several thefts of clothing near Hanover and in other parts of York county, entered a plea of guilty to charges of larceny, receiving stolen goods, and fraudulent conversion of property when he appeared in the county court at York Monday.

Jones, who at the time of his arrest was on parole from a sentence imposed in Dauphin county, was given a suspended sentence by the York court and was turned over to the parole officer, George Weaver, to be returned to the Eastern penitentiary to complete the remaining twenty months of his Dauphin county term After that he will be returned to York to answer for his alleged crimes in York county.

He also was charged with larceny in Adams county and was given a suspended sentence at Gettysburg several weeks ago. Jones' record, the court was told, dates back to 1918 and includes such crimes as larceny, burglary, embezzlement, forgery and assault and battery.

Timely Reminders for Adams County Farmers From State College Specialists

If you are not doing so, begin now to keep a garden record book. Record the dates of sowing seed, planting, and transplanting for each variety. Note the time of bloom of each annual, perennial, and shrub. Keep a record of where and when plants and seeds were purchased and the results obtained. Such a record kept over a period of years will be very valuable, say ornamental horticulturists.

Provide Pollination

Where bouquets are to be used in pollinating apple trees enough material should be left at pruning time for the purpose, according to fruit specialists. Growers have found that Jonathan, Red Delicious, Grimes Golden, Golden Delicious, McIntosh, Gano, and Ben Davis are the most satisfactory pollinators for the standard varieties.

Reduce Soil Erosion

Topsoil losses from erosion can be reduced by dividing sloping fields into contour strips, say agronomists. Strips of hay or wheat between strips of corn or oats in the crop rotation will break up the slopes into alternate erosion-resisting and erosion-encouraging crops.

Take Care of Sheep

A few hours spent in the sheep barn at lambing time will pay large dividends, livestock specialists point out. However, if the flock has been properly fed and exercised, little trouble should arise.

Use Healthy Seed

It is false economy to use seed potatoes of inferior quality, say plant pathologists. Poor stands, lower yields, and low-grade product due to tuber-borne diseases are likely to be the result.

Grow Good Plants

Proper watering and ventilation are important practices in the growing of early plants, report vegetable gardeners.

TIP FOR BAKERS

Be careful not to fill baking dish-eh too full. Escalloped foods, rice puddings and fondues need about two inches of rising space. Foods made with baking powder, soda, cream of tarter or egg whites require at least three inches.

Sent to Pen to Finish Sentence

John A. Jones, Jr., alias Nick Summers, York, charged with several thefts of clothing near Hanover and in other parts of York county, entered a plea of guilty to charges of larceny, receiving stolen goods, and fraudulent conversion of property when he appeared in the county court at York Monday.

Jones, who at the time of his arrest was on parole from a sentence imposed in Dauphin county, was given a suspended sentence by the York court and was turned over to the parole officer, George Weaver, to be returned to the Eastern penitentiary to complete the remaining twenty months of his Dauphin county term. After that he will be returned to York to answer for his alleged crimes in York county.

He also was charged with larceny in Adams county and was given a suspended sentence at Gettysburg several weeks ago. Jones' record, the court was told, dates back to 1918 and includes such crimes as larceny, burglary, embezzlement, forgery and assault and battery.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go
The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.
A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25c. Stubbornly refuse anything else.
